

Value Life and my blog is a wonderful way to connect and evolve with each other.

This is a wonderful start to something grand.

I have a challenge for you. First, I will tell you about how I do this.

For me to feel successful in spirit when I to put everything in prayer and ground myself. I start my day in prayer. The best thing (and it maybe even easier) is to offer situations up before (to God) and after. That is a prayer right there.

Two points:

1. Keep it simple:
Simple as elegance i.e. "little black dress" or long black dress in style feels good. We do not even have to think of "style" thinking of it as "classical", meaning it's evergreen content.

2. Better done than perfect:
Getting something done and presentable is very good. A lot of us want to get it perfect. That gets in the way it and causes stress loss of time and energy.

Getting it perfect - perfection to the "T" is stressful many times.

I have Read and see even government documents they have typos even the graphics don't make sense.

Rather be safe and sound than crazed and perfect.

Keep it simple. Better done than perfect. So, my challenge to you is: practice this and get back to me. Let me know how it works for you. We will compare notes and support each other.
